Constraints

- · If attempting to Checkout but not already logged in, bring them to the login screen
- Account details button is not available unless logged in, where login button becomes account details. If sign out is hit then this page becomes the log out page and tab changes back to login.
- · If someone wants to leave a comment or rate the page they must be logged in, if they are not then report to login page
- · To gain access to the admin portion you must first login to a valid administrator account
- · Once logged in login button becomes "Hello, name" button that links to account details
- · Orange lines show that the user is trying to perform an action you need to sign in for, revert to login screen

Logic Process

- 1. Home Page Home page will include a quick navigation bar to gain the ability to find items, while also giving the ability to learn about our page.
- 2. Login Page Page where user enters account details to gain further access to our site. Email address and password used for login. Also contains a link to create an account, recover password and gives the ability to keep them signed in.
- 3. Create Account Page If a user does not yet have an account they will have to create one to gain full access to our site. To create an account, you will have to provide first and last name, password twice and email address twice. Your password will have to - meet certain requirements: at least 6 characters and one must be a number. From this page you will also be able to navigate back to the main login page if you already have an account.

- 4. Account Details Here a logged in user can find their order history, wish list, payment information, change password and sign out. When sign out is hit it will go back to login page. Account details button is not available unless logged in, where login button becomes account details.
- 5. Browse Items This page will be used to navigate through categories and subcategories to find your desired product, giving the ability to browse all items at once. Sort methods are available to order items as you see fit.
- 6. Product Page This page will used to read details about the product. From here you will be able to add it to your cart.
- 7. Shopping Cart The shopping cart gives you the ability to view items that you have added to you cart. You can increase the quantity, delete an item, see price of a single item, total price of item once quantity is selected, see subtotal of all items, continue shopping and navigate to the checkout page.
- 8. Checkout Allows user to select desired payment method, shipping location and shipping method. We also show a summary of the total price and a brief look at your shopping cart with the option to return to it. If attempting to Checkout but not already logged in, bring them to the login screen.
- 9. Contact/Comment— Users can find information on how to contact the site administrator if they have problems with our page or a purchased item. If someone wants to leave a comment or rate the page they must be logged in, if they are not then report to login page
- 10. Admin Administrator will have the ability to search users as well as enable/disable them by name, email or post. They can also edit/remove items and comments. To gain access to the admin portion you must first login to a valid administrator account.
 - a. User Allows us to search for a user by name, email or post, once using is found we have several abilities. We can enable/disable them, remove their comments, order history and edit their information.
 - b. Products Gives you the ability to add new items, need to fill out the list of descriptors in the UML not leaving primary keys blank.
 - c. Orders Search through orders by order number or customer id. This allows administrators to track past orders and current ones, we then have the ability to delete or edit orders that have not yet been received.
